

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION
UNITED STATES NATIONAL MUSEUM
WASHINGTON, D. C.

April 5, 1918

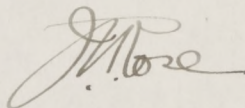

Mr. I. M. Johnston,
Upland, California.

Dear Mr. Johnston:

Your little box containing specimens of Sedum anomalum is just at hand and the specimens are in good condition for planting.

I am inclined to think that your No. 1644, the one with white flowers, is Sedum californicum, although it is found much farther south of that species. If opportunity presents itself, will you be good enough to make up a set of herbarium specimens of both species which we can distribute through the National Herbarium to the leading botanical herbaria of the country?

Yours very truly,

Associate Curator,

Division of Plants.